[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN]

Senator Boutwell on Resumption.

NEW YORK October 21—To night Mr Boutwell ex Secretary of the Treasury, delivered one of the Galaxy course, of lectures on finance and panic and its remedy concluding as follows Another fact to be taken into account is the large open interest in gold in Wall street based on the actual demand of five millions a week for the payment of duties I maintain that it is not possible to resume or retain specie payment until the balance of trade is little or nothing against us and I have no faith in any scheme for resumption but in a vigorous comprehensive public policy by which the industry of the country shall be developed its resources multiplied and its capacity to supply foreign countries with articles of production increased to that the demand for gold to go abroad shall be met by a demand for gold to come to us I hope we shall resume and that when we do it shall be for our lifetime

Rumors on Wall Street

There was a report current in Wall street that the Government intended borrowing sterling an operation by which Washington early in the day sold These reports on the direct authority of the Treasury Department and a prominent New York dry goods commission merchant stated he had just arrived from Washington bringing with him a letter from President Grant to an officer of one of the leading banks of this city This bank officer stated that the President announces his intention to draw on the forty four million reserve to the extent of three millions per week for some weeks to come, and also buy probably one million sterling exchange on London for the use of the State and Navy Departments.

CHARLES SUMNER.

THE MASSACHUSETTS STATESMAN'S PRESENT POSITION AND PROSPECTS

[Eastern correspondence of the Hartford Courant.]

Senator Sumner took the place of Vice President Wilson on Tuesday evening in presiding at Mr Edward Jenkin's lecture. The Vice President had agreed to be present, but did not feel that his health was yet quite adequate to the effort and expected Mr Sumner was found to be looking unexpectedly well again He has very greatly improved in appearance since the time he was seen in public here last autumn. The reception given him was immensely enthusiastic It was an ovation that was again and again renewed and was prolonged several minutes If the popular manifestation is any criterion from which to judge Charles Sumner is a stronger man to-day in the hearts of the people than he ever was I don't think the distinction accorded him on our streets and in our public places, even at the time when he returned suffering from the assault of Preston S. Brooks, was equal to that which is witnessed here now He makes as much sensation as did Daniel Webster in If All eyes are turned towards him, and crowds gather about if he pauses, in the same way that the "god-like Daniel" was greeted when his worshipers used to assemble about him in our marts of mammon Mr Webster's part was most imposing, He was a manly man from that fact alone, Mr Sumner is nearly as majestic His great height makes up in some degree for the superior massiveness that pertained to Webster's physique. The homage paid to Mr Sumner's intellect and to his patriotic service is more general than was accorded to Webster He has a moral power with the people that the latter lacked though it was partially made up for by an intensity of admiration of his more immediate personal followers that is not exhibited towards Mr Sumner But it would be difficult to find any decided enemies of Mr Sumner in the State. He has outlived almost all that personal antipathy which was so severely bestowed upon him in the early stages of his public life. His defection last year was a sore trial to some of his Republican friends and they and impatient and unkind things about it All such animosities appear now to have vanished They never existed generally in the party, even in the thickest of the Presidential canvass At the largest Republican meeting held in the southern section of this city last year, a prominent and popular Government officer was addressing the people In defending the President, he meantimously proceeded to attack Mr Sumner To his apparent amazement and certain discomfiture a storm of hisses instantly greeted him and he was very glad to dismiss and change his topic immediately All prejudices that then existed have apparently vanished Mr Sumner's independence and purity have stood out grander than ever in, unst the black background of the recollections of the present year Those who differ widest from him in opinion do not withhold their reverence for his integrity and his intellectual power With or without a party back him he is by far the strongest man in the Senate and unless I greatly mistake the signs will be confidence of this to satisfy everybody before the end of another year is reached

ANOTHER STORY OF THE DUKE OF BRUNSWICK.—The late Duke of Brunswick has excited the envy of the Parisians by leaving his money to Geneva instead of to Paris Quel gros betard! said a Frenchman to go and leave all that money to thieves instead of to Paris and all the fault of a mauvais coucher on account of a glass of water' A glass of water' asked our correspondent What is that

Well don't you know the Duke of Brunswick threw a glass of water out of the window and a commissionaire went to him to say that it was not allowed to do that in Paris The Duke swore he would do as he liked and so soon as the official was gone he threw another glass of water out of the window, for which he was fined which so exasperated the Duke that he immediately sent for his lawyer, and had his will altered in favor of Geneva instead of Paris"

THAT ROOSTER

IT IS THE CAUSE OF ALL THE BIG FINKEYS & THOUSANDS

[From the Danbury News]

The Rev Mr Pinkney of Shawson bought a game rooster from a Danbury dealer, saturday Mr Pinkney informs us that he was not aware the fowl was of the game species, he bought it because of its shapely appearance We believe this statement, and are confident that the good people of Shawson will acquit him of all blame in the unfortunate affair of Sunday morning, the particulars of which are as follows

At the time the trouble commenced, Mr Pinkney was engaged in arranging his necktie preparatory to putting on his coat and vest Happening to look out of the window he saw his new rooster and a rooster belonging to the Widow Rathburn squaring off in the street for a fight Surprised and pained by this display he immediately started out to quell the disturbance but it was too late When he got there a half dozen young ruffians, with cigars in their mouths, and evil in their eyes, had surrounded the birds which were already in the affray They would thrust their heads out at each other, and ruffle their necks, and then dance around and strike out with their spurs, and jump back and strike out their heads again And when the boys saw him they shouted out

"Hurry up, baldy (Mr Pinkney is a little bald), or you'll miss the fun"

Mr. Pinkney was inexpressibly shocked It was Sunday morning, the homes of two of his deacons and several of his most prominent members were in sight, and here were those roosters carrying on like mad and a parcel of wicked and profane boys shouting their approval, and noisily betting on the result He made an effort to secure his fowl, but it eluded him The perspiration streamed down his face, which turned like fire his knees trembled, and he felt as he saw the neighbors gathering, that if the earth would only open and swallow him he could never be sufficiently grateful for

Just as he attempted to catch his rooster a rough looking individual, with his pants in his boots and a cap with a drab down forpiece came up and taking in the scene at a glance, sided in with the other rooster

Fair play shouted the new comer for the benefit of the crowd, and Don't step on the birds, old codger for the particular benefit of Mr Pinkney who crazed beyond reason, was jumping about swinging his arms, and muttering incoherent things, to the great danger of stepping on the combatants

"Good for old Pinkney's rooster" screamed the boys in delight as that old fowl knocked a handful of feathers from his opponent's neck

"The parson knows how to do it" said the one-eyed man gleefully

Mr Pinkney could have swooned

"I'll go you $5 on the wilder, said the rough man earnestly winking at the clergyman

Take him, Pinkney' Take him Pinkney' He roused the crowd of ragamuffins

My friends protested the minister, in a voice of agony I cannot I cannot

I'll back your sir said an enthusiastic man with a fish pole I'll put up for you and you can let me have it from your donation

The clergyman groaned

Catch the wilder shouted the rough man to Mr Pinkney and stop the lady's bird by cramming it in

Mr Pinkney clutched at dropping his hands as he did so At this time the rough man by the corner is more caught the clergyman's bird and also dropped on his knee opposite

Just then Mr Pinkney looked up and there saw two of his deacons and several of the members staring down upon the scene with an expression of intense pain the unhappy man dropped Mrs Rathburn's fowl and fled out of the house

Monday as he hovered from his mid up he was in his reclamation Until then all examination had been made in the mountains and it remained that as far as the worthy man was concerned the war was not the least bloody The record was unsullied

TRANSMISSION Such is the title of the following inquiry and it speaks for itself Can some one explain

Why is it that the Democratic papers of this State are so anxious to have the Democratic party throughout the country endorse the policy of the Democratic party in this State and indorse its platform? Why is it that the Democratic papers of this State are so anxious to have the Democratic party throughout the country endorse the policy of the Democratic party in this State and indorse its platform?

A SCENE IN THE EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE

DR KEYSER ON THE VICE HEAD AND STAVE A BRISK DISCUSSION FOR CHRISTIAN COURTESY

After less than an hour had passed the entire audience became quiet and Dr Kayser proceeded to say that he was glad to be in this country the speaker proceeded to further illustrate the evil of an established custom of making his references personally to the Chairman It was unjust to the state to compel the Chairman to submit to the insults and contempt of Governments and had allowed to the sympathies of counter just prejudices or to palpable injustice [Applause] It was unjust to the citizen [applause] It deprived him of equal participation in the rights and privileges of the government [applause] It deprived him of equal participation in the rights and privileges of the government which was contrary to the views of a free people [applause and laughter]—and which did not appear to be sanctioned by the Scriptures [Applause and laughter] He compelled the taxpayers to support a denomination which has not their approval It robbed—[applause]—citizens of their property for which government took more than was necessary for a just and economical administration of political affairs it committed robberies [Applause] Worse than this it seduced its own citizens into fatal delusions, made them neglect their personal regeneration led them into false security as members of the national church and made itself accessory to the spiritual murder of scores whom it governed It did wrong to the holy religion Public profession of the state religion was sometimes coexistent with private incredulity Infidelity took refuge under the cover of an establishment where religion was enforced by law Former and Italy, in their present state of atheism were not persuasive of an establishment [Prolonged applause]

At this point Dr Crooks announced that the speaker's time had expired Cries of "Go on" and tumultuous applause, lasting a minute followed Silence being obtained, the President said

We have many guests from abroad attending the meeting of the Alliance, and they have a right to expect courtesy at our hands Their convictions are just as dear to their hearts as our convictions are to us I doubt therefore, whether we can insist upon prolonging at this course, while much remains to be done as it has been completed have deep and painful wounds I did not interrupt the speaker although I thought he was exceeding the bounds tacitly determined on by the Alliance I cannot think it will to allow him further time

There was a manifest disposition in the audience to demand that it the right to exceed his time, given to every speaker who had before asked it, should be granted But Dr Curry said

I will solve the problem of courtesy by yielding But it is with the most earnest and emphatic protest against the implied censure of the Chairman that I have been discourteous or unchristian [Applause, and a shout of "Go on"] I shall not go on I was discussing a subject assigned me by the Alliance, and was doing so after the most careful thought I only wish to add that one topic remained to me, and that had time been granted, I think I should have been able to prove even to the satisfaction of the chairman, that the doctrine of an established religion in addition to what I have said of it, is also unscriptural

There followed a tumult with cries of "Go on" met by hisses Dr Curry left the platform and passed down the aisle, shaking hands right and left with men who left their seats and hurried toward him As he finally disappeared, and the audience, somewhat diminished in numbers, sat down and became quiet Dr Crooks said

CHRISTIAN GENTLEMEN Let us remember that we are American Christians I hold the convictions asserted by the speaker as profoundly as he does I love these truths and live by them but I like to think that you are bound and I am bound by the rules of Christian courtesy You'll take my word for it won't you? I have already been informed by a brother from abroad that this line of discourse is very painful Let us show that we can remember all the obligations of a just courtesy Sing the hymn, beginning, "Jesus shall reign where'er the sun shall his successive courses run"

WASHINGTON TERRITORY LEGISLATURE

Fourth Biennial Session.

[From our Special Correspondent]

OLYMPIA Oct 21 1873

Commencing with the House of Representatives a large room in which the speaker and Arms keep his stationery and it seems to be the wish of the members that one half of it be set apart as a sitting room by which means the House would be decidedly benefited and members feel more satisfied than they do now while standing outside in the cold frosty air or smoking in the hall

After the House was called to order to-day Mr Van Vleet introduced a petition praying for a territorial road from the city of Kalama on Lewis river to Yakama valley, which was referred to the Committee on Roads and Highways The same gentleman also introduced three petitions relating to changing the boundaries of Clark and Cowlitz counties which were referred to appropriate committees

Mr Clark of Lewis introduced H B No 55—an act in relation to mortgages and bills of sale of personal property—which was read three times and passed

H B No 54, introduced by Mr Van Vleet, to amend an act relating to the corporation of the city of Kalama, was referred to Committee on Corporations

H B No 56 by Mr Henry, provides for the relief of the sheriff of Thurston county by appropriating $214 expenses incurred in capturing an escaped prisoner read second time and referred to Committee on Ways and Means

H B No 57 by Mr Cook, regulating irrigation and water rights in Yakima county, read second time and referred to Committee on Agriculture

The following bills were introduced by Mr Clark of Lewis

H B No 58 act relating to taking up sawlogs and other drift timber; laid on the table for further action

H B No 59, in relation to Judges in District and Probate courts practicing as attorneys at law same action

H B No 60 in relation to liens on mechanics and others for labor and other material same action

H B No 61 to regulate interest on money same action

H B No 62 relative to recording town plats referred to Committee on Judiciary

H B No 63 in relation to vacation of town plats, same action

H B No 64, providing for assessing and collecting county and Territorial revenue, referred to Committee on Ways and Means

H B No 65 relating to deeds, with amendments to old law laid on table for further action

H B No 66, an act to fix the age of majority, which now stands, males 21, females 18 An amendment has been submitted by Mr Lacy, which I am sure will meet with the full approval of all marriageable young ladies, which provides that they shall attain majority at the age of 16, but whether it be for the purpose of allowing fond "parents" to get rid of unmanageable daughters earlier, or to procure husbands for them, your correspondent knows not Suffice it to say that the little bill, on which such responsibility rests, was laid on the table for further action I would state, for the information of Mrs. Dunaway, that the bill does not in any way affect woman's rights

H B No 67 provides for the payment of costs in certain cases same action as last bill After which the honorable gentleman from Pierce and Mason heaved a deep sigh, remarked "That's all, Mr Speaker," and sat down, when a general grunt of approval all round (including even the Chief Clerk,) denoted that the House was satisfied.

H B No 15—For the cultivation of oysters and allowing proprietors of oyster beds on Shoalwater Bay twenty acres instead of ten, was brought up for final action and passed

The bill providing for the relief of W R. Downey passed

Act to confirm the title of the Seattle and Walla Walla railroad to tide lands around Elliott's Bay, was also passed

C B No 5 was then introduced, which provides for changing the boundaries of Clarke county referred to the Committee on Ways and Means

C B No 6—An act repealing an act regulating taxes on railroads

C. B No 7—An act authorizing the County Commissioners of Clarke county to build and repair bridges in said county, referred to the delegates from Clarke county

H B No 8 having been made a special order for to-day, was brought up for final action It is an act amending an act providing for the incorporation of the city of Port Townsend. Passed

It was moved and carried that the Governor's Message now printed, be laid on the table and made the order of to-morrow

After which the House adjourned

NOTES FROM OLYMPIA.

OLYMPIA, Oct. 21, 1873

Workmen are busy repairing the Swantown bridge as fast as circumstances will permit. The inconvenience arising from the break is very great, especially to country people. The draw on Marshville bridge is also declared unsafe, and teams are prohibited from crossing It would be well if the town authorities would appoint an inspector of bridges immediately, so that such accidents may not be likely to occur

Professor J D White gave an entertainment last evening in the Tacoma Hall, the audience being a miserable small one; how ever those who were present were well paid for coming out—the entertainment being extra good Mr White has a pleasing musical voice an excellent memory and good address so that with all these qualities he will undoubtedly become a favorite on the Sound and elsewhere

ANECDOTE OF THE LATE DR NELSON.—The Paris correspondent of a medical journal gives a pleasant reminiscence of the late celebrated Dr Nelaton physician to the late Emperor whose death was recently announced by cable

As I passed into the hall I heard groans, evidently of a child in great pain the door leading to the sick ward was ajar and I heard the voice of a man talking earnestly with a little sufferer There was something very affecting in the imploring tones of the child's voice and the tender and sympathizing replies of the physician and it seemed to me not wrong to witness unseen through the crack of the half open door the scene that was passing within On a narrow pallet near the window lay a fine boy nine or ten years old dying of cancer developing itself between the eyes and behind the nose It had not shown itself externally but had destroyed the sight and was attended by excruciating suffering By his side sat a stately white haired man holding with one hand the wrist of the little patient while with the other he caressingly smoothed his hair The child told the story of his pain—O I suffer so much to which the old man listened patiently and promised to do his utmost Then the poor child's face lost heart over the boy and with tears dropping from his eyes kissed his forehead as lovingly as a mother The white haired man was the world renowned Nelaton

A blunderer from all not guilty in a New York court recently when asked after what judge he had been tried by the jury were for convicting The court was amazed at the verdict but result of the prisoner had been clearly proved As to the prisoner he let out the instant he heard the verdict and was not to be found when the unfortunate had been discovered

THURSDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 23, 1873.

NUTS FOR THE BULLETIN TO CRACK.

One or two days ago a man named Jas. Brown, who was confined in the city jail on a charge of larceny, made his escape from prison. The occurrence was an unusual one. Whether or not any blame is to be attached to the officers in charge of the city jail, we do not know. But the circumstance affords the Bulletin an opportunity to charge the Metropolitan police with grave dereliction of duty. They were guilty of gross carelessness, hints the Bulletin. "Had the policemen, who displayed such alacrity and zeal in the prosecution of cases in the Circuit Court that couldn't be made to stick with all the false swearing on the part of the prosecutors before the grand and trial juries both, exhibited only a fraction of the zeal in the performance of their duties, James Brown would not have escaped," says the grieving Bulletin.

From all that we can learn of the case referred to, we conclude that Brown made his escape as hundreds of other [illegible] all over the country make their [illegible] by sawing an iron bar in twain. While it is condemning these policemen for relaxing their vigilance and suffering a solitary prisoner to escape in the dead of night, will the Bulletin tell us what it thinks of an officer who will permit prisoners who are serving out terms in the County Jail to walk past him in broad daylight, and suffer them to remain at large for the better part of a day? We do not charge, and we repeat the [illegible] at the instigation of the [illegible] ring which controls the [illegible] of this county—of which ring [illegible] is mouthpiece certain prisoners in the county jail were released on the 13th inst.; that they were [illegible] accompanied by [illegible] of the law, and at the polls, [illegible] Smith tickets; that no [illegible] for their release was made. Will the Bulletin deny, extenuate or defend this audacious proceeding? When [illegible] community was outrage so [illegible] perpetrated on a law-[illegible] people? The contrast between the [illegible] of the officers of the law in [illegible] active cases is most apparent. In [illegible] Brown escaped in the dead [illegible] and noiselessly: in the [illegible] who were disfranchised by the [illegible] of law were taken out of their [illegible] and work for the Bulletin's [illegible] the dungeon doors were [illegible] at the "Open, Sesame" of the [illegible] ring. Does any man possess [illegible] lots of regard for law and [illegible] at our elections wonder that [illegible] is indignant when it deals [illegible] foul facts? We have a [illegible]thful, when in the throes of [illegible] such enormities as these [illegible]

[illegible] point of false swearing in the [illegible] in the Circuit Court, of the re[illegible]layed on election day by the [illegible] ring, we have to say that it [illegible] ill grace from a paper pe[illegible] partisanship, this espousing [illegible] who stand convicted—in [illegible]—of felonies.

[illegible] petit jury which was called [illegible] of Franklin, the negro repeat[illegible] who reliably informed, made [illegible] of men whose connection [illegible] fidelity in the schemes of the [illegible] ring is notorious. A [illegible] officer was on the trial jury, [illegible] of the ring was everywhere [illegible] they placed themselves between [illegible] and the law. They [illegible] money and the counsel for [illegible]. Their enemies were run[illegible]ed for several days before [illegible]ing up the evidence. We are [illegible]y scores of people who attended [illegible] of Franklin, that his guilt was [illegible]ent. Several witnesses identified the man who voted in North [illegible] precinct, while it was admitted [illegible]ted in Mead[illegible] precinct. A [illegible]love of the ring was found to [illegible] his [illegible] was Franklin, and [illegible] was the Franklin who voted in [illegible] precinct. On the evidence [illegible] of the ring the repeater was [illegible]

[illegible], we would remind the Bulletin that in behalf of justice, itself and [illegible] displayed in the case of Ryan [illegible] the zeal that animates them now, [illegible] would have been in the county jail [illegible] when Ryan confessed that he [illegible] money for his vote. He implored [illegible] City Attorney Mulkey in the [illegible]. But when his case was [illegible] in the Police Court he [illegible] counsel provided for him. Robert Sybee, an attorney of this city and one of Ryan's counsel, was bailed by this man Mulkey to appear for the defendant! What interest had Mulkey in this matter? And when bail was to be furnished, one of the ring's most pliant tools a party by the name of Dubois—appeared as surety. What interest had Dubois in this matter? Does any one believe that he was actuated by charity for the poor devil who was purchased by his superiors? Or will any one believe that when Ryan's bond of $100 was declared forfeited, the money came from the surety's purse? Ryan had sworn that he would appear before the grand jury as a complaining witness against Mulkey, and it was but natural that the members of the ring should band together in defense of their companion in corruption.

When the Bulletin has thoroughly digested these queries and suggestions, we will give out others equally interesting.

BRUNOT'S PURCHASE.

Colorado is associated in the vulgar mind with desperadoes, bad whisky and worse Indians. The odor of frontier life, with its inevitable accompaniment of lynch law, still clings to the name of the Territory. And yet there are many palpable evidences of primitive civilization. There are schools, newspapers and saloons, with an occasional sprinkling of churches. Latterly, the Powell expedition opened up the wonders of the magnificent canyon through which [illegible] the ambitious City [illegible] to the Rio [illegible]

From the disastrous business of making treaties with perfidious Modocs and murderous Apaches, the Board of Indian Commissioners turned to this promising field. Thence come wonderful rose-colored tales of an enormous financial bargain that shrewd Brother Brunot has struck with seven representatives of the average red man of Colorado. We are told that the Commissioners have discovered on the Ute reservation mines whose richness rivals the wealth of Ormus and of Ind. They are located in the San Juan mining district, in Western Colorado, between the 107th degree of longitude and the Utah Territory line. The mineral belt is 60 miles wide by 100 long. The price paid by the Commissioners is $500,000, or rather the yearly interest on that sum, the first amount being held, as is usual in such cases, in trust for the Indians. Mr. Cree, who comes bearing the joyful tidings, wants us to believe that this is no "scrub" trade—like the purchase of Alaska. He has made a personal inspection of the mines, and "they are immensely rich in gold, silver, copper, lead, iron and coal. Five hundred valuable leads have been located, and one mine—the only one fully tested—is yielding with poor machinery, $1,000 gold per day." The bargain for this remarkable district was a fair and square transaction, says Sinbad Cree, and the chiefs who managed the Indian side are "so intelligent that a New York lawyer might find it difficult to entrap them in matters concerning treaties"—a doubtful compliment, but none the less true when we consider that, in our experience of the past year, our knavish "wards" have managed to "entrap" us nearly every time.

Our Sinbad fortifies his assertions with a profusion of dazzling details. There is the little Giant mine, which was sold without legal title to a Chicago Company for $50,000, and which, since the treaty, is valued at a million. It is expected that with improved machinery now en route, it will yield $25,000 in gold per week. Then there is a nameless mine in the same lead "which is being negotiated for at $450,000." The ore from this bed yields from two to five thousand dollars per ton. Another gold bed, undeveloped, yields $8,000 per ton. The country is "equally rich in silver, one bed being very rich, with a vein six feet thick." Another yields pay in a forty-foot vein. There are immense veins of copper cropping out on the surface, none of which are taken up. Mountains of iron and endless, fathomless beds of coal are visible to the unassisted optic on every hand—all of them "immense." To develope these rare deposits there are 250 miners, "most of whom are unable to command $5 in cash." A truly lamentable state of affairs! But then, says Mr. Cree, summarizing his golden visions, the country is "good for one hundred millions of the precious metal yearly; twenty town lots were located on the news of the treaty being signed; the mining region is surrounded by as good a chain of mountains as there is in the country." It is gratifying to hear that the town lots have found a good market. And as for the mountains—well, anyone who may delight in Munchausen will appreciate the Commissioner's assertion that "at one point they saw one hundred peaks towering from 14,000 to 16,000 feet high on every side."

Can it be possible that the Peace Commissioners know as little about mines as they know of Indian character? Some of the pyrites will be placed on exhibition where it will do the most good in alluring trustful capital.

SANTANTA AND BIG TREE.

It is the weakness and folly of Peace Commissions that in their code of laws the distinction between the good and the bad, the peaceable and the warlike Indian is merely nominal. Sitting Bull, Santanta, Big Tree and Cachise may stop short in their murderous trifling with treaty stipulations, wash the war paint from their faces, go upon some convenient reservation and receive their annuities while the General Government stops not to inquire into their past depredations nor the prospective repetition of the same. The recent release of Santanta and Big Tree demonstrates most forcibly the earnest need of establishing some fixed standard of good behavior by which every tribe and individual should be severely judged. Until we have this, the cruel farce of punishing refractory Indians by the law of convenience must continue.

For outrages committed on citizens of Texas, Santanta and Big Tree were apprehended and imprisoned in the penitentiary of that State. Immediately the Board of Indian Commissions interested themselves in behalf of the prisoners and called upon Governor [illegible] to release them. The demand was not complied with. But humanitarianism was not to be put off with a single refusal. And so for months a lengthy and pointless correspondence was kept up, chiefly by the Board. At length it was said that the Kiowas were uneasy, that they had determined to go on the war path, unless the chiefs were liberated. And yet it has never been shown that these threats were anything more than attempts on the part of the Kiowas to bully a vacillating humanitarian into a release of the murderers. A few days ago Governor Davis, with Santanta and Big Tree, met the Peace Commissioners at Fort Sill. There the Texas executive was asked to reconsider his decided action. Commissioner Smith presented him with a written appeal on the part of the General Government, in which it was argued that the faith of the Government had been pledged to the liberation of the captives. This looks very like impudence in the Commissioner. Mr. Smith had no more right to pledge the faith of the Government to the release of Santanta than has any private citizen. The Indians had committed an offense against the commonwealth of Texas, were amenable to its laws. The General Government had not attempted to assert its jurisdiction over the offenders. To avert a threatened outbreak, the Commission might have been excusable in promising the tribe that they would use their good offices with the State authorities. Beyond this they had no shadow of right to go. [illegible] in the Texas penitentiary, was just as securely beyond the reach of a pledge of Governmental faith as was Edward Stokes in the Tombs of New York city. It must be confessed that these tender-hearted gentlemen were profuse in pledging the faith of the Government. In the proceedings of the Fort Sill council we read that Mr. Smith "pledged the faith of the United States that if the chiefs were turned loose the Government would gather all the Indians together; would place them under close surveillance; would establish a cordon of scouts along the frontier and reurrest Santanta and Big Tree if the Kiowas misbehaved, or ten principal Kiowas in their places," etc. Governor Davis yielded and suffered the captive chiefs to go to their tribes without pardon. It would be worth something to have the exact status of these "wards" defined.

Perhaps it is well, after all, that no concession was made in this instance. But the American people have learned in a thousand mournful ways—by massacre and pillage, by the bloody lessons of the scalp knife and the torch—that it is safest and cheapest in the end to apply to the Indian the law to which every white citizen is subject: to punish the guilty and protect the innocent.

At Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 3, Georgie M., only daughter of Daniel and Mary J. Cram, aged 9 years and 10 months.

Mr. and Mrs. Cram were formerly of this city. In this community they have a large circle of friends who deeply sympathize with them in this bereavement, which takes from their home the third and last of their little ones.

Do you mourn when another star
Shines out from the glittering sky?
Do you weep when the raging voice of war,
And the storms of conflict die?
Then why should your tears run down
And your hearts be sorely riven,
For another gem in the Saviour's crown,
And another soul in Heaven. "M."

CITY.

THE ENTERTAINMENT—One of the largest and most respectable audiences which we have seen the present season assembled last evening at the Masonic Hall Immediately the entertainment was a very decided success as the proceeds netted several hundred dollars The selections were of an interesting and pleasant character and gave entire satisfaction to the audience Especially worthy of mention were the readings by Masters David Robertson James McCraken Julius Thielsen and Horace Thielsen Col John McCraken read a selection Her Letter in that gentleman's most happy style, which gave him a hearty encore Miss Body also read the "Piper of Dunkow" in an excellent manner eliciting its meed of applause The solo singing by Mrs Gilbert and Charles Lancaster did these well known and favorite vocalists great credit which fact the audience was not slow to observe and appreciate The vocal quartettes at the opening and conclusion of the entertainment rendered by Mesdames Corbett and DePrans and Messrs Schuyler and Lancaster, were very excellent and heartily applauded The crowning selections of the evening were the piano and organ duet by Messrs DePrans and Thielsen, and the instrumental trio by Messrs DePrans, Kay and Thielsen The members of the Ladies Relief Society can congratulate themselves on the success which attended the entertainment last evening

TURNED OVER—Major H M Robert officially turned over yesterday all the books papers charts etc of his successor Gen Michler The papers thus turned over are connected directly with the War Department and do not pertain to that portion of this District embracing the various lighthouses He will turn over in about a week the different papers directly connected with the lighthouses There is a considerable amount of unfinished work such as reports, estimates, etc, which Major Robert will complete before his departure. This will enable his successor to begin work just at the point where the Major left off, as it would require months for General Michler, who is wholly unacquainted with this District, the amount of work done, that which is under way, or held in contemplation, and to know where to commence first.

GAS MAINS—A large number of men are engaged in laying a gas main along Sixth street The main is rapidly approaching the new gas holder at the corner of Sixth and F streets, and will reach it in a few days This main connects with those two which run parallel along Front and First streets, and as it leads directly from the new holder, will supply all the business portion of the city

EAST OF THE MOUNTAINS—Bishop Morris has made the following appointments for his Fall appointments in Western Oregon and Washington Territory Nov 8th, La Grande—laying corner-stone; Nov. 9th, La Grande—confirmation, Nov. 10th, Cove service, sermon and confirmation; Nov. 13th, Union—confirmation, Nov. 15th and 16th, Baker City Nov 23d, Walla Walla

STORM FOR A SPACE—Yesterday afternoon the steamer [illegible] stopped near half an hour in the river opposite the foot of Madison street, where a snag protruded some distance above the water We were unable to ascertain whether the boat was endeavoring to pull the snag out or had run on it accidentally.

PAINTING—The new gas holder at the corner of Sixth and F streets, is finished, and is at present receiving a coat of paint The guides have all been erected around the edges of the holder, and the reservoir has been filled with water, Everything will be in readiness to receive the gas in a few days

MAN OVERBOARD—A man, whose name we did not learn, fell overboard from a scow yesterday at the foot of Morrison street He was gallantly rescued from what would soon have proved a watery grave, suffering no other serious inconvenience than a thorough ducking and a sound fright.

ANNUAL FANCY FAIR—The Sisters of Charity of the House of Providence, will hold the Annual Fancy Fair for the benefit of their Orphan Asylum, at Metropolis Hall, in Vancouver, on the evenings of the 28th, 30th and 31st of October

FOUND GUILTY—The case of State vs Isaac Coheen, charged with assault with intent to kill, came up yesterday in the Circuit Court. After being out for a short time, the jury returned a verdict of guilty as charged in the indictment.

CHANGING BUOYS—At last accounts, the U S tender Shubrick was at St. Helens Some of the buoys at that point require overhauling, and the locations to be changed The object of the Shubrick's visit was to attend to this duty

DEPARTURE—The party of excursionists consisting of a number of the sturdy yeomanry of Linn county, departed for Astoria yesterday morning on the Annie Stewart They will be absent several days, before returning to this city

ARRIVAL—The new hose-cart which will be used in connection with the new steam fire engine soon to arrive for Columbian No 3, came up on the Ajax This cart can carry with convenience 1,000 feet of carbolized hose

BUSINESS NOTICES.

When a person goes to a place of business he invariably wants to buy a good article and at the same time is willing to pay a living price for what he purchases Messrs Harris & Prager have adopted a plan that is sure to give entire satisfaction to customers. One price is the idea, and that price is set so low that the purchaser cannot ask for reduction Mr Prager has just returned from San Francisco with a new stock, which added to the present stock, fills up their large store Consult the prices in their new "ad" and don't fail to call and examine the assortment of new goods.

A. L. Bancroft & Co. advertise in another column for agents to sell one of the best books which has been issued from the press "A Manual of American Ideas" They also desire agents for the sale of the pictorial work, "A La California, by the late Col Albert S. Evans This firm has for sale the new text books for public and private schools—the Pacific Coast Series of Readers from the first to the fifth inclusive We invite the special attention of the public to these notices which can be found elsewhere

At the celebrated dry goods establishment Au Bon Marche says a Paris letter which is extensively patronized by Americans a new feature has been introduced this season It having been noticed that American gentlemen frequently got impatient while their wives and daughters were shopping, and hurried them off before they had obtained all they wanted a well fitted up billiard saloon has been provided for their amusement while the purchases are being made It seems to answer the purpose well as they are always easy to be found when it is necessary for them to come up to the Captain's office and foot the bill

Emil, Lowenstein & Co, recently burned out by the great fire have removed their stock of Carpets Curtains Coverings etc to No 87 FRONT STREET between Washington and Alder where they can be found selling off the entire stock AT COST in order to start soon in new quarters with an Entire New Stock All persons indebted to them are requested to call at their temporary place of business and settle up

A Disabling Disease.

No disease which does not confine a man to his bed so completely unfits him for business as dyspepsia When the stomach is foul, the brain is always muddy and confused and as the cares and anxieties of life are a sufficient burden for the organs to thought to bear, without being tormented by the miseries born of indigestion, it is highly desirable for the brain's sake as well as for the sake of every other portion of the system, that the disordered stomach should be restored with the utmost dispatch to a healthy vigorous condition This object can always be accomplished by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters the purest and best of vegetable specifics, which evacuates the morbid humors through the bowels rouses and tones the torpid stomach and regulates the liver imparts firmness to the nerves and clears the sensorium of its mental cobwebs. Persons subject to attacks of indigestion bilious headache, irregularity of the bowels, sickness at the stomach, or "the blues," should take the Bitters once or twice a day throughout the present season.

WOMAN'S WORK

The work of woman is peace!
She has no nobler work to do—
Man's woes to soothe man's sweal increase
Let her that noblest work pursue

The work of woman is peace!
At home abroad and everywhere
Where bliss abounds where discords cease
The place of woman is there, is there.

The path is stony the task is hard
But all worthy gaining by toil is gained
The work itself is its own reward
And well begun is half attained

Then stand, woman! your mission is great
Our race from bondage to release—
From brands of envy, spite and hate.
The work of woman is peace in peace!

—Sir John Bowring

WHO THAT DIDN'T HANG HIM

CONFESSED MURDERER CONTRADICTED BY HIS SUPPOSED VICTIM

[From the New York Evening Post.]

Mr. Leonard Sargeant, of Manchester, Vt., formerly active in politics, and once lieutenant-governor of that state, has published a pamphlet containing a narrative of, and the evidence in a murder case which occurred early in the present century. Mr Sargeant was one of the counsel for the defense, and his account of the incidents, which covered a period of eight years, is very interesting. The pamphlet is printed for the purpose of giving to lawyers the points in a case which has often been used, but additional importance is attached to it from the prominent part taken by the author in that early day in public affairs.

In 1812 there lived in Manchester a man named Boorn, who had two sons, [illegible] and John, and a son-in-law named Colvin, all living with him. Colvin was a eccentric man, supposed to be insane at times, and frequently absenting himself for days without notice, and without giving any account of his adventures. At last he was absent so long that people began to make inquiries, and suspicions of foul play were whispered about, and years passed, and [illegible] was no explanation of Colvin's absence. Some of the neighbors remembered that Colvin had declared that Colvin would [illegible] and that they had "put him where [illegible] not free." They had not [illegible] as with him, and this added [illegible] first them.

[illegible] other circumstances be[illegible] were the brothers. [illegible] a dilapidated hat, which [illegible] the one Colvin wore at the [illegible] Search was then [illegible] of the [illegible] murdered [illegible] heard a dog uncovered some [illegible] old shoes, which at first [illegible] but subsequently did not to be. An uncle of [illegible] in which Colvin resided told him that he had been [illegible] the [illegible] which was [illegible] E and it was at once commanded [illegible] men had been [illegible] that the fire was intended [illegible] of the [illegible]. All these [illegible] to the excitement upon [illegible] was then out of the [illegible] confirmed that [illegible] had told him a short time [illegible] and Colvin had quarrelled [illegible] Colvin by a blow on the [illegible] of the neighborhood and [illegible] the next few days in [illegible] Colvin's houses; but none [illegible]

[illegible] He [illegible] and [illegible] to [illegible] of the grand jury. The [illegible] body was found, [illegible] the jail with the [illegible] of a confession of [illegible] and both the boys [illegible] was in 1819, after [illegible] ance [illegible] the trial took place [illegible] of the case to [illegible] ion of mercy [illegible] on was the chief [illegible] Notwithstanding it [illegible] hope of finding a more [illegible] that no body had been [illegible] der, or even that [illegible] convicted [illegible] on the 20th of January [illegible] of the evidence [illegible] would attract [illegible] was shown [illegible] Sargeant did the [illegible] to be that the [illegible] was killed from the [illegible] was held as a [illegible] upon the suspicion that [illegible] ort to the murder. [illegible] a petition for the commutation [illegible] against the Boorns. [illegible] refused to change the sentence [illegible] for life, but refused [illegible] It occurred [illegible] with his counsel [illegible] plan to advertise for [illegible] up to that point [illegible] had him guilty, but he as[illegible] was untrue and [illegible] The following note was [illegible] the Rutland Herald [illegible] of newspapers through[illegible] are desired to publish [illegible] of Manchester, in Ver[illegible] to be executed for the mur[illegible] in, who has been absent [illegible] Any person who can give [illegible] Colvin may save the life of [illegible] immediate communi[illegible] about five feet five inches [illegible] light colored hair, [illegible] years of age [illegible] Nov. 20, 1810."

[illegible] traveled slowly then, and [illegible] had but little hope that this [illegible] if his story was true. [illegible] Sargeant's [illegible] York Evening Post replied [illegible] happened that the no[illegible] in one of the hotels in [illegible] man standing near [illegible] he had formerly lived [illegible] well acquainted with [illegible] many anecdotes and pecu[illegible] him. Tabor Chad[illegible], N. J., was standing near [illegible] to the conversation, which made [illegible] his mind. On thinking [illegible] his return home it oc[illegible] to him that a man they living with his [illegible] Mr. William Polhemus of [illegible], N. J., answered exactly the description [illegible] Colvin as given by Whelpley." Finally, he [illegible] to The Evening Post, giving his [illegible] Whelpley saw it, went to Dover, [illegible] Colvin, and, after great effort in [illegible] him to visit Manchester. There was [illegible] excitement in the town, and Stephen Boorn [illegible] from the prison to fire the cannon [illegible] ated his deliverance.

The [illegible] remarks that this case is without a parallel. To the newspapers alone [illegible] due the discovery of the unconscionas [illegible] of the trial and conviction of [illegible] brother-in-law, and the prevention [illegible] judicial execution. It needs no extraor[illegible] mind to see how difficult it would be [illegible] a case so long to remain a mystery [illegible] days, when everybody is a daily news[illegible] reader. A few points in the Kelsey case, [illegible] ing investigation at Oyster Bay, [illegible] of the Colvin case, but [illegible] is still alive, as some maintain it [illegible] that he can remain undiscovered by [illegible] ers, and unconscious of what is going [illegible] behind him for eight years.

[illegible] JUSTICE.—Juries in France occasionally have curious ideas of justice. A man named Cantau, lately tried at Bordeaux for murdering his neighbor Trenit with a reaping hook, was condemned to pay a fine of 200 francs. As he was leaving the court he deliberately pulled out a revolver and shot Trenit dead with his son, killing the latter on the spot. He was tried for this second crime recently, and though he declared his only regret was that he had not killed the father as well as the son, he was acquitted. The civil court then condemned Cantau to pay Trenit per's 8 000 francs for the death of his son.

MORTALITY AMONG THE HOGS.—A singular and fatal disease has broken out among the hogs in a few localities in Jacksonville county, Ill., and is doing considerable damage. The first symptoms are numbness in the fore foot generally the right one, and want of appetite. The legs swell from the foot upward until the swelling reaches the body, when eruptions begin to show themselves, mortification sets in, and death follows from 24 to 48 hours from the time of the [illegible] is out.

There seems to be a comparatively better supply of coin in our market though the amount is still short of the actual requirements of the export trade. A very great reason for the present quiet condition of the grain trade is the lack of funds available for that purpose. This is a season in which the farmers are more nearly holding the crown with the grain buyers and shippers in Oregon than ever before. The farmers are now holding back their surplus grain and as they have got their crops in more means than usual owing to fine fall sales they will be likely to exercise a greater influence on the market than they did last year when prices were down. In the course of a fortnight as much wheat had been disposed of in the same period as this season. In fact it is stated that many are well prepared to hold out until spring against any reduction on the prices paid three or four weeks ago. We scarcely think exporters will be justified in acceding to their demands.

It is stated that all the principal grain buying points in the United States—possibly excepting San Francisco—the same difficulty is found in getting money to buy grain. At Chicago and some other cities meetings have been held and addresses sent to the authorities at Washington asking for money to market the grain crops. The present and prospective fall in gold in New York the expense of carrying it owing to the dearness of paper money has lately somewhat checked the demand for remittances East from this coast.

The payment of the November coin interest with rebate has not had the effect to release much coin from the Treasury. Of the $13 000 000 not more than $4 000 000 have been drawn which mostly came from the registered bonds. The coupon bonds are generally held in Europe and there has not been time enough to forward the coupons for collection. The demand for cash gold to pay imports is far below the supply.

The Iron Trade.

The Monthly Market Review of Edward Samuel of Philadelphia, states: American Pig Iron is still without movement of note although in the early part of the month, from the inquiries afloat a moderately active trade was anticipated. It is needless to say that the panic financial panic has entirely destroyed such anticipations. Prices are purely nominal, most of the producers preferring to carry the Iron than take four months' paper which in the present condition of affairs is useless. Would quote nominally for standard makes at furnace for No. 1, $38@40; No. 2, $38@34, No 3 $29@30 although we have heard of offerings at considerable lower figures for cash.

"Rails have been in light demand with consequently receding figures, and the future outlook is anything but promising. Already wages have been reduced from 10 to 15 per cent. at several of the largest works, and further change occurs in the market, many of the mills will undoubtedly have to suspend work. American nails are held at about $75 at mills and $65 gold is the asking price for English in New York. The old and new Railroad Companies consuming directly about 1 200,000 tons per annum, and indirectly half as much more, will not only be curtailed in their purchases, and this, together with the increased production, will undoubtedly produce a stagnish trade the coming winter, and perhaps require a suspension of production for some months to come. The trade generally has however had several panic years and is perhaps in a better position to stand operations, if need be, than ever before. The price of labor will no doubt be materially affected, and we look forward to much lower wages for many months to come.

Manufactures Market.

The volume of business under this head is perceptibly increasing and dealers begin to feel more encouraged. The grain market is active at current rates, with rather more inquiry for Wheat and some disposition to advance; general quotations to $1 85 P cental. Oats bring $1 25 P 100 lbs, and Barley rather weaker at $1 20@1 45. The receipts of Apples, Potatoes and Onions are exceeding the demand as the shipments are somewhat limited, both on account of the available transportation being taken up for Wheat and the flat prices in San Francisco. Provisions are firm at the quotations last given with a quantity of scarcity of good lots of Shoulders and Hams, which are wanted to supply neighboring markets. The supply of Butter is adequate if we except the more exception of choice dairy for table use, which still commands fancy prices. Eggs are received in limited quantities and find ready sale. Hides are firm at 6@7c P lb for green and 15c for dry. The latest mail advices from the East denote rather less activity in the Wool market, owing, with our doubt, to the obstacles thrown in the way of manufacturers by the late financial crisis. Prices however seem but little inclined to recede. Our local market for this staple is firm at $23@25c P lb for choice lots, and 16@21c for common.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Ajax is announced to sail hence for San Francisco Friday next, at 6 P M.

The ship City of Paris has completed the discharge of ballast and will begin to receive her cargo at Carter's wharf to-morrow.

The bark Homer is completing her cargo of grain at Astoria.

The Flechero Mariano, Lord of the Isles and Eskdale all ships of large size are now on their way from San Francisco for this port, to load wheat and will be due next week.

The Spirit of the Dawn will probably go to sea on Monday next.

The bark Jane A Falkinburg has about completed discharging her cargo. She will have quick dispatch for Honolulu.

The Gussie Telfer sailed this A M for Port Townsend, Seattle and Victoria.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

SAN FRANCISCO Oct. 22.—Arrived—Eastport Coos Bay Golden Fleece, New York, Cultivator New Zealand, John L. Stephens, Portland Pharos, Sydney.

Sailed—Ship Orpheus, Callao.

Puget Sound Shipping.

The ship Alpheus has just sailed from Utsalady with a cargo of 767,007 feet of lumber and thirty two spars. Two vessels are loading at this time—the bark Onward for San Francisco and ship England for Australia; the latter vessel will carry about 700,000 feet of lumber. Two coasters and two foreign bound ships are on their way from San Francisco for lumber.

The ship Springfield 1,043 tons has been chartered to take lumber from the Sound to Shanghai at $31 27 Mexican per thousand. Ship Wildwood, 1,099 tons, will take lumber from Burrard Inlet to Shanghai for $31 per thousand. Ship Orpheus, 1,057 tons, will take lumber and railroad ties from San Francisco to Callao and Chincha for $30 gold. Japanese bark Jiji Sho 300 tons will take lumber from San Francisco to Callao for $19 gold.

The ship Dashing Wave arrived at Callao from the Sound Sept 2d, being 68 days out.

The bark Jenny Pitz Capt Blinn, sailed from Tacoma for San Francisco about 8 o'clock on Friday evening. Her cargo consisted of 500,000 feet rough lumber and a lot of hides and skins. She was towed down to Port Townsend by the Etta White.
